Business Challenge

Analytics play a more critical role in today's healthcare, and non-profit organizations such as the Howard Center require more accurate, timely data. Executive reports and board summaries must reflect the work being achieved to maintain funding eligibility and uphold credibility.

When Howard Center reached out to LaborSoft, they faced the challenge of generating the cohesive analytics needed across departments and throughout their dispersed workforce. Each group had their own method of storing and managing data from spreadsheets to older PC databases. Compiling, sourcing and understanding data was a labor intensive task that took time away from mission-critical responsibilities.

"LaborSoft allows management and Board of Directors make better, more informed business decisions that impact finances and operations to help forward the organization's mission."
